

Sunday August 6th

Got up late this morning after all the chores were done and had breakfast alone as the rest were waiting till Roy got up and I did not want to be late ringing the bell. However I did not go down till they were half through breakfast and then got down about 9:30. I cleaned the windows I could reach out of the windows. We stayed in to communion and then Daddy Enah and I went up to see Cousin Clare. We went down to Hubby's for dinner. Daddy did not want to stay but as dinner was just ready Auntie Hannah wanted him to. Harry Bathurst was there. Daddy and Enah went home and I stayed at Hubby's a little while till Hubby took Lila (in her bathing suit) down to fish up off the dock, then I went up town and sat in the market square awhile with Pat Jarner and then came over to the bottom of Brent's place and eat apples for about a quarter or an hour with Murray. It looked a little thundery so Murray went up to the Breas and I went home through Hannister. I found Dad just emerging from the bath tub in the wood shed and Enah in a light dressing gown. We sat around and read and Enah played a while and then all of us including Lige and the grey kitten went back the gully. Enah and the kitten stayed at the top of the hill while Daddy Lige and I went down and fixed the fence over the creek going into Coleman's as Babby got out there to-day Lige and I strolled near Grand John Thomas Watson's and down the McQueen's gully. Daddy went over to see the oats and thinks they will be all right pretty
