

Crack would feed from. They pray and Frank went and pulled what down the hill to the gully. After tea we all played a game of 20 in which is meant to imitate the "Barnyard" - the principal of seems to be for each person to make a nut - possibly in a short a time as possible. When Frank and I shelled both and took myself.

Monday October 2nd

Daddy drove Roy down to the station first thing this morning. I had my breakfast with Roy before going for the cows and then milked them. Frank and I went out after hickory nuts but there were not many down and the wind was cold so we came in and shelled some of the chestnuts they got Saturday and added them them over this morning. Daddy shoveled some ditches and things, and then hitched up the team and he, Frank and I went over to Blabie's and got some oats and the fanning mill. After dinner Enah Daddy drove down to Mr. Matthew's funeral and I sawed a wood. Frank tried to shoot some birds but failed in the attempt. Daddy left Enah at Woodson's and came back and got Hank and took him down to see Mr. Smith and arranged to have him start to school in his room to-morrow They got back with Dick about five and Quite far out. We got the forms from Mrs. B. and I spent the same time. I read the Old Curiosity Shop all evening.

Tuesday October 3rd

I got up late this morning with a bad cold. Frank started school this morning with Dick. They both took their dinner I sawed quite a little bit of wood and Daddy fixed up the corn-crib temporarily.
Then he pitched the corn stalks that William's left over the orchard fence and I spread them under the trees.
This afternoon Daddy, Enah and I went up to the cemetery with the lumber wagon and tools & material, and Daddy fixed things up nicely there. The old man up there who was in there with his bid was giving Dad an account of all his troubles with the society. I guess the bid has a fine time in there. The squirrels are so thick and he has a fine place to practice jumping and leap-frog. We got home about five and Dick and Frank got home about the same time. It began to rain before we got home and rained
