

to take to the mill but as it was so wet we didn't go. Dad went down to Auntie's for tea to night. Maria & M. Laughlin was over all the after noon playing with J. It has been colder to-day and snowed a little this afternoon.

Sunday February 16th

I went to Sunday school this morning and I left here with the intention of going but when I got within sight of the town clock and found it to be a quarter after ten I decided to wait till church time so went back to Auntie's and read for a while and then went to church sat in the back seat with Frank Lloyd Myers and a stranger and disgraced myself by going to sleep during the service dreaming of something funny and waking up laughing. I perhaps apologized at Auntie's and also tea. Accompanied Auntie to church this evening and spent the after noon and evening with Marj & the Montetiks. Soft during day. Colder & bright

Monday February 17th

I have spent in a pretty idle day. This morning Frank & I went down to the mill this morning with the grain we bagged up on Saturday and from there on down town to the White where I got my trap nest which Emory made for me. We got our chop on our way home. This after noon I just sat around and read. Dad and Frank put on a load of hay and hauled it over to the horse stable. Evah and Ed drove Miss Phipps over to M. Peterson's for her to see a dinner-wagon Emory is making for her. To night I went down to Auntie's for tea as she invited me to go to the picture show with her. Marj was there too and we three went to see Margurite Clarke in "The Seven Swans". It was about the prettiest and all-round nicest show I ever saw. Auntie is very distressed about my ribs hurting so much and thinks I should go to the doctor. Colder but fine all day. Snowing quite hard to night.

Tuesday February 18th

I haven't done anything in the shape of work to-day but this after noon went down and had the doctor examine my ribs where I hurt them a couple of weeks ago as the last few days they have pained considerably when I tried to work. He said the bone was not hurt but put some adhesive tape bandage around one which promise to be better. I got my hair cut and stayed at Auntie's to tea. Hubby was there too as he came to take
