"No Trouble With the Stomach."

A Baltimore physician reports: "I ordered Pepto-Mangan (Gude) for an anemic case in which the stomach would not tolerate the usual combinations of iron. I began cautiously, giving small doses at first, gradually increasing until the full dose was taken. At no time was there any trouble with the stomach, while the effect on the anemia was highly satisfactory. I prescribe Pepto-Mangan (Gude) in the original package."
