Treatment of Erysipelas.

Pontano believes that measures that torture the patient are useless, and serotherapy has given no conclusive benefit in the severe cases. He has been best pleased with the action of hot compresses dipped in physiological salt solution and renewed every four hours. Although this treatment does not modify the actual course of the disease or reduce its mortality, it is the simplest and easiest means of protecting the region, preventing contagion, and reducing the pain.—Policlinico.

Weather Cloudy all day Temp.

Mrs Appleford telephoned that <sup>my</sup> ~~my~~ <sup>my</sup> was fast in the barbed wire fence so John & Eugene went right out there & they had to draw her home in the wagon. Mrs Lauce & Mabel were here a little while. Mrs Van & her niece were up. Charley Marchant & two little boys were here.
