273 DAYS PAST

SUNDAY

93 TO COME

Substitution upon physicians' prescriptions is a crime of the basest order, not alone against the integrity of the physician, but committed, after thought and deliberation, against the helpless, sick, and dying.

If cheapness is most desired, commercial combinations, placed upon the market for substitution, can be procured to take the place of an original product. Such bear no evidence of having stood the test of searching investigation. Salesmanship does its part—the "Just as good," "Just the same" argument is not intended for any purpose other than profit.

Rained off and on all day. The Websters came to Aunt Belle last night. Dolley Scott came with them. They & Lewis's was here for dinner.
