

about pasture for his horse and as he said his brother J. C. Ross from Jarvis was down town Dad thought I had better drive down and ask him if he could tell us what was causing the wool to come off our sheep. I saw him but he couldn't tell me, he said it was like scab but with it they are itchy. I took my horn down, stayed at Aunt's for tea and went to hand pump to night Dick was down there for tea too.

Tuesday July 22nd

It was still too wet to do any hauling this morning so Frank, Dick & I cleaned up some more oats and then put what we had cleaned through again so we think now we have enough for seed. Cleaned up Dad picked black currants and hauled in the garden. This afternoon we hauled in the rest of the wheat in three loads one of them a small one. To night Dick & I drove down up to Butler's and I got my hook & line. It was half past eight & just dark when we got there and Willard & his brother were coming in with a load of alicks. Two of them have taken off 95 acres of hay & alicks and have their whole 150 acres in crop. Frank rode his wheel up to Kelly's

Wednesday July 23rd

We hauled in the rest of the hay about four loads all but about 12 cocks from east of the old garden and we hauled one load of alicks from out there. There is also a little of it left. We put the hay in the horse stable and pitched the alicks off in the old barn. The blue grass was hard to pitch and it took a long time to put on a load. Crutshaw & Harris, district agent for Massey Harris were in for about an hour after dinner trying to sell Dad a fertilizer disc drill. Dad said he wouldn't take a chance on it but Frank could if he liked so Frank signed their agreement. He is to pay $5 next March and $100 a year from then. To night they rode down Mud Mt. and Dick and I took some milk and cream down to Aunt's and then went for a swim.

Thursday July 24th

Frank started to cut the rest of the stuff out east of the old garden this morning but had a break down with the mower so didn't get any cut. Dad cultivated the potatoes with Belle and I thinned at the mangels all day. Dell helping me this afternoon. Dick had a toothache this
