Ether—Practical Administration. No. 13.

Respiration simply rapid, say 30 or 40, need seldom be viewed with gravity, but not so any irregularity of rhythm or extreme shallowness,—such qualities should always be viewed with suspicion. Likewise a marked change in the quality or rate of the pulse is important. It might be well to remember, in this connection, that preceding the return of reflexes with accompanying vomiting there may be an apparently unexplainable change for the worse in the pulse. As before said, it is in such cases that reference to the eye is of much value.—Dr. J. B. Bogan; N. Y. Med. Journ.
