Gastric Aphorisms—No. 5.

When otherwise empty the stomach will dispose of a glass of water within ten minutes, whereas a slight admixture of foodstuffs will delay the process two or three hours.

A penetrating gastric ulcer most frequently involves the liver, next in frequency comes the pancreas.—Bell; Med. Herald.

Weather

Temp.

Thrope & hard frost big lot, that John could not work this morning. Melba & I took Maudie to school & got a bag of yellow sugar, then tonight Melba went for Maudie, Melba did a large ironing, I made Melba's new brown gingham dress, John ploughed about half past ten, then this after noon cultivated in the field east of the south barn. Teddy & I came home to day, he is married to Corn. Grundy & sprained his arm quite badly
