

Saturday, April 24

114 DAYS PAST

251 TO COME

Abdominal Pains.

With certain precautions, the general rule that persistent abdominal pain, unrelieved by rest and starvation, requires the abdomen to be opened, will often be the means of saving life, though very rarely it may lead to an unnecessary operation. By persistent abdominal pain, in relation to the acute conditions we are considering, is meant pain with an abrupt onset in a patient who has been in good health, which persists for more than twenty-four hours, although the patient has been kept in bed on the lightest possible diet.—Leslie; Med. Press and Circ.

Weather

Temp.

Very warm
Boy's sowed the field down east of the woods cultivated a little in the field north of that one. Maudie went to Almi er in the afternoon. Wilfred was up a little while in the afternoon. Maudie gave hat two little lambs last night
Billey 5

115 DAY

of the
adminis
astring
(Gude)
intestin
constip

Weather

Mau
Lhu
The School
all for
Cry
and
Ale
Mother
Be