45 TO COME

To Be Ultimately Successful.

The substantial elements of the vital fluid must be restored and reconstructed if the treatment of post-malarial anemia is to succeed. In other words, the "restitutio ad integrum" of the blood is the definite aim and object in this condition. If Pepto-Mangan (Gude) is regularly administered, after the paludal poison has been neutralized, it can be definitely depended upon to restore and re-create red cells and hemoglobin.
