

SATURDAY, MARCH 5, 1870.

Charley and I
cleaned up a grist
this morning. By chopp, I took it out to the mill and we went along with one. We had dinner at George Halls and had a pleasant visit with Maria.
I called to see my Mrs. German and had also a profitable
season in his Compound. Was pleased to hear that the special services at Wood-
house were prospering nicely. May the Lord pour out upon that people abundant showers
of blessing.
Looking to Jesus still driving to hang myself on his bleeding cross and precious

SUNDAY, MARCH 6, 1870.

Read one of Punksen's
sermons this morning.
Remained at home until the afternoon service.
We had Mrs. German had to dinner. His sermon
this afternoon was good.
I will not let thee go
until thou bless me.
The sermon was excellent.
My soul was profited
in hearing it and my heart was made glad
in hope of His favour.
My prayer to deaf
had been very precious to my soul. The Good God seemed so near
and that to own and bless. We had a good service this afternoon
and our class meeting
was unusually long
and interesting.
