

Sunday May 28th.

Went down to Sunday School this morning with Daddy behind Belle and after church drove home with Enah and Daddy. After dinner I walked into town via the stump but did not go in. I went down to the dock and then around by the Morgan's and sat there an hour or two talking to Murray. We thought there was going to be a big thunder storm but it blew over. I came home about five o'clock and lay out on the lawn till supper time. After tea Enah and I walked to church and were relieved to hear Mr. Johnson announce that owing to the intense heat the service would be shortened. There were only thirty-nine there hardly enough to pay expenses.

After church we went over and listened to Mr. Lawrie's graphophone which was fine. We got home about 10 o'clock.

It is cooler now and there is a slight breeze. The mosquitos were bad at the Lawrie's.

Monday May 29th

Got up about seven this morning. I disked the corn field all morning behind Belle and Harry or Joe for we found out that was his name.

Bill turned up just after dinner. He and Quint had walked down from Normandale this morning. They never caught a fish.

When he came he set to work to make a corn marker and Daddy, Enah and I drove down in the wagon after another load of stuff. We got the sofa, the arm-chair and other things.

We got back about six and Bill had the corn marker all made ready to put bolts into.

After tea Bill, Dick and I went back with the rifle to see if we could find and ground hogs but in vain. When we came back Mrs. MacPherson was here, she stayed till Bruce called for her about half past nine.
