

The rain last night stopped further work with the hay. For a time at least. Started Lewis ploughing in the field by Mr. Brides, while Joe and I have been cutting thistles and doing sundry other jobs.

Ma and I went out to town this evening. Called at Mrs. Lawrence for a few minutes and afterwards at Mr. Barretts. Found that Harry was going to British Columbia soon, staying on Friday next. Had a pleasant short visit with them.

Lewis has continued to plough in the field by Mr. Brides to day. Finding that the ground is already getting hard and dry.

Joe has finished going through the corn again to day, also the fodder corn and potatoes in garden.

I have been doing sundry jobs such as putting Paris Green on the potatoes and hoeing in garden.

Lauranthe Kitchen came to see us to day. She does not look well though. Is still living in Lewis
