What his Father Rode.

A teacher in one of the Westfield (Mass.) public schools was startled the other day at the answer she got from one bright little fellow.

On the blackboard was the picture of an ostrich, and the teacher described its great strength and power of endurance, closing by saying it was the only bird upon which a man could ride.

"I know another," spoke up a little chap.

"Well, what is it?"

"A lark."

Unsuspectingly the teacher asked, "How can you prove that, Johnny?"

"All that I know about it is, that mother every little while says father's off on a lark, and when he comes home he looks as if he had rode awful fast."

"Here, you young rascal, walk up and give an account of yourself. Where have you been?"

"After the girls, father." "Did you ever know me to do so when I was a boy?" "No, sir, but other did."

"How came these holes in your elbows?" said the widow Smith to the irrepressible small boy.

"Oh, mother, I hid behind the sofa when little Jack Horner was sayin' to our Jule that he'd take her, even if you had to be thrown in; and he didn't know I was there, and so I held in and laughed in my sleeves till I bust 'em."

"How had you the audacity, John," asked a Scottish laird of his servant, "to go and tell some people that I was a mean fellow, and no gentleman?" "Na, na, sir," was the candid answer, "you'll no catch me at the like o' that. I aye keep my thochts to myself."

CHILLBLAINS AND FROST BITES.—A few applications of Hagyard's Royal Yellow Oil is a sure cure.

A rather gaily-dressed young lady asked her Sunday-school class "What was meant by the pomps and vanities of the world?" The answer was honest, but rather unexpected—"Them flowers on your hat." That was a sermon on "top-knot come down."
