64 TO COME

The Diagnosis of Cancer of the Breast.

Moszkowicz's test for mammary cancer, as distinguished from adenoma, is based upon the fact that, while the former infiltrates the tissues and compresses many blood vessels, the latter does not. If a cutaneous hyperemia is produced over the tumor, by means of rubbing with alcohol and ether or a hot-air douche, the skin over an adenoma becomes as red as the skin over the normal tissue near by; the skin over a cancer, however, remains relatively pale.—Central. für Chirurg.
