

Dad plowed all day but as it has been freezing a little ever since yesterday it plowed pretty stiff and he didn't get quite so much done. however he is just about to the old cherry tree so will soon be done. I cleaned a few ditches this morning but spent most of the day doing chores. Frank took some oats to the mill this morning but there wasn't enough water to chop it. I went down to Aunt's to tea to night. Mary was there and after tea she Aunt Alice & I went to see "Waves in the East" at the picture show. After the show Aunt Alice went to play bridge at Cousin Charles. and I called for

 It froze hard last night and there was no chance of plowing and most of the morning was spent doing chores and getting Ernie & Sid. started off for Toronto. They went to Brantford on the 11 o'clock car and were going to take a train for Toronto from there after dinner. They drove down town and Dad walked down, stayed & dinner and drove back this afternoon. He said Sid. at the last minute was very loth to leave and seemed quite sick. They don't know whether he was cold or excited but they persuaded him to go as far as Brantford and then if he still felt sick he could come back, but as they haven't showed up I guess he recovered. This afternoon Frank harrowed Jack Martin's hog crate and we weighed up his four hogs. they just averaged 200 lbs apiece. We did chores up early and I went to bed soon after tea and Frank went out to Bill Sidway's

 Frank got breakfast this morning and right after breakfast Dad. left home and didn't show up till after dinner. He went down to Aunt's to climb up a little down there around the barn. Frank has been doing house work all day and I have been doing chores. It began to rain quite early this fore noon and has kept it up all day. Clearing off at night and a strong west wind taking its place by ten o'clock there was a regular hurricane blowing and it was increasing in violence. Frank went down town to night and said when he got home that there were several trees blown down and the pole fence where the roof of Hugh M. Queen's store had blown off.
