

school this morning, then fed up the cattle and drove Cush down town to get some meat. I did chores and cleaned up the old barn floor. This afternoon Cush and Mary went to a party at Ada's, and Mary went on down and had tea at Aunt's then went with them to the Bible Class. Dad and I hauled out the stuff I cleaned off the barn floor and dumped it in the tank then I went on out and got a shock of corn to feed to night while Dad went after Sid. Old Pommer got feeling gay when I was coming in with the corn and picked over the tongue and skinned his leg a little. So night I went down to band practice but went around to the Bible Class for a little while first. After band practice I went down to Aunt's where Mary was waiting for me but as the walking was so bad and Mary felt so miserable with her cold we stayed down there all night.

Friday November 11th

I came home early this morning and got here before Dad had gone out to do chores. Mary stays down to go to the service Mr. Cornish held at a quarter to seven to observe Armistice Day. She came home before dinner. Dad and I spent the day doing chores and gathering up the snow fences to put around the stack but didn't have time to fasten them up. We also brought in some more corn stalks. I'd have a bad cold and didn't go to school to-day. To-night Dad and Cush went down to choir practice. The Washington Conference on the Limitation of Armaments is supposed to start to-day. There seem to be great differences of opinion regarding the outcome of it. In spite of the fact that Harding issued a warning not to expect too much right away, a great many people are looking forward to the millennium starting in right away. Mr. Cornish is very hopeful that some thing wonderful will come of it especially if the public aid with their prayers. There are others, skeptics, who try to point out that it is no new idea and that this conference will be as helpless to cope with the spirit of militarism as the others have been, while about all the hope that is held out by the Americans is the opinion that for present now the only move will be to scrap the old type and obsolete war ships but not make any change
