

Supper was served at 11 o'clock after which they moved the stove, writing-desk, and ready-made clothing table in the shop and soon were engaged in the 'mazy dance' to the music of a melodeon, as they had not engaged a violin-player not expecting to dance. William and I left about 1/2 after 1 A.M.
The rest of the party broke up about three o'clock.

There were about forty persons present. Enjoyed myself very well.
