

Friday January 1st 1915.

When the New Year came in all of us who were dancing joined hands in a circle and sang "Should Auld Acquaintance be forgot," after which we had refreshments and danced for a couple of more hours. Jerry didn't dance but was down there till the last and I suppose saw one of the girls home. Mr. Dick and I met at the bank and got home a little before three and turned in a half an hour later. After a few hours slumber I got up and did chores for the rest of the day. This evening I distressed Aunty Alice by sitting around and not going to bed and pleased Aunty by sitting up till nearly eleven o'clock and repeating the first canto of "The Lady of the Lake" off by heart. Charlie Teeple was in this morning and spoke as if Jim Waddle rather wanted to see Dad. so he and Enah drove out there this afternoon. They want Dad for one of the bearers. Dick and Jerry stayed in bed till noon and spent the afternoon and evening down town. Not cold all day turning very windy & stormy to night.

Saturday January 2nd

It snowed and blew all night and has kept it up all day to day, so all the roads & tracks are drifted full but except for the wind it has not been very cold. I drove
