Hints on Fractures.

The unskilful application of a circular bandage to the arm may be followed within a short period by ischemic paralysis. The patient or the person in charge should be instructed to keep the fingers moving after the application of the plaster dressing. If the patient is unable to do so, or should a swelling or blueness of fingers appear with increasing pain, the bandage must be cut down immediately and re-applied properly.—J. E. Fuld, M.D.; Int. Journ. of Surg.

Weather

Temp.

Rained in the morning. So that John had to give blaughing, feet & washed. Some of the clothes were dry to night. John started blaughing the little field by the woods so I gathered the cabbage & I made crout.
