Gynecological Hint.

Granulations, or small mucous polypi, often form in the lower portion of the female urethra, causing frequent and painful urination. They can easily be removed after the free application of a 2 per cent. cocaine solution. As they are usually associated with urethritis, this must be cured by appropriate treatment; otherwise the growths will return. Not infrequently Skene's glands are infected, and to remove the infection it is usually necessary to incise the small ducts (two in number) leading to them.—Waldo; Int. J. of Surg.

Cold & rained a little several times. Still they cut hay & drew in one load, and cutting the field by the road south of George Davises. I did ten quarts of black currants to day. Maudie & I went to Aylus to have Maudie's nose fixed then down to Charley Marchant to get some hearts & tringes.
