

clock this morning the books are open for subscription to the new "Victory Loan" and all sorts of means are being resorted to to bring it to the attention of the public, this being one of them. I stayed talking to Uncle Ward till I nearly froze and when I came home found Frank sorting potatoes so helped him till noon. This afternoon I intended going down to the doctor's again but Dad. wanted me to write to Dick so by the time I got that done it was pretty late and Leah said I might as well wait till after tea and then take Auntie's milk down so I did. I also took a basket of apples over to Mary, as she told me yesterday she had hardly tasted one all fall. She went home to night having taken Miss Kelly to the picture show. I went around to the doctor and got another bottle of dope and he burned out a couple more spots I stayed down all night at Auntie's. Dad. plowed this afternoon and Frank pulled some more turnips. Saw East wind to-day cloudy but clear to night.

Tuesday November 13th

I came home about eight this morning and helped Frank bag up some oats to take down to be chipped. We took Beth and Queen and as they haven't been out for about a month well feeling pretty gay. Queen especially. It was about eleven when we started and they told us down there that we could get the grain in half an hour so we drove down town and got my box from Waller's and a bag of salt getting back about noon. Dad. plowed all morning. This afternoon Frank went down back and plowed and Dad. and I spent most of the ~~morning~~ <sup>after noon</sup> cutting a block off the butt of the old oak. I went over to Ben's for a little while just before dark to see the tractor. It is plowing deeper than it did at first but has to make very wide runs and leaves the ground very uneven. Cart. Bowley was finishing up after it and had a big job as the pebbly thing doesn't pretend to go straight. Cart. didn't think Ben was going to gain much in time or money by using it and then as he says it is only half plowed. Frank went down town to night for a little while, there was a meeting in the town hall to night to put the terms of the Victory Loan before the public. Froze hard last night but has been nice day.

Wednesday November 14th

Leah, Jim and I went down town this morning and stayed at Auntie's to dinner. I went up again to the doctor and he punctured three more spots one a great big one like a blister and my hands pretty sore to night.
