

till one saw the big balloon go up then we got parted. When we were in court gallery we saw A. J. C. cabinet there, lovely oil paintings & water colors. We came down to see balloon. one ornament up in it very near out of sight we did not see it come down.
Then Ed & I got at horse ring fence. a awful crowd there, could not see without standing on tip toes & peering through shoulders, so we took that way until our toes very near cracked they were advised standing that way. after awhile some moved then we got a little better place for seeing but ^{a great deal more} ~~not much better~~ for smelling, for right in front of me there was a great big man. who at his pop gun go off & it being filled with air of a very different perfume than that of my handkerchief, my nose did not agree with it all & it was some time before I could get it to depart from me. Edith was a little away from me so did not have the displeasure of such a buff. But for all we saw lots of huddling places, so
