

Mrs. Monroe's corner as it had washed out under the road and Charlie Butler's horse had gone in and turned a complete summer south. He thought after last night's rain it might need some more fixing so I drove him back. Supper came along while we were there and rode on into town with me. I got up to Jones about 11 o'clock, had dinner there and finished the painting about four. He seemed well pleased and paid me $3. I went in for a while on my way home to see Mary. Rained on my way home.

Saturday March 28th

Dad & I sank through the grader back yesterday but said they couldn't do the rest of the road so I went over right after breakfast and got Tom Stone to hook to it and we made one round on the north end of the beat before dinner. Tom made the other round on the whole beat this afternoon, and had his man with him. I went down town and did the week's trading, and spent quite a little time with May. The doctor was there and told her she would have to stay at Mrs. Lawson's another week. She is feeling better though. Cold north west wind all day snowing to night.

Sunday March 29th

The ground was covered with snow this morning which has pretty well disappeared by to night although it has been cloudy & raw with occasional snow flurries all day. Gay & I went down town this morning and Ina went home for the day. I got down for church and Auntie came home from Sunday school to be with Gay. I spent the afternoon with Mary. I had tea at Auntie's and called for Ina on the way home. She had tea at home. This was Mr. Robert's last Sunday here.

Monday March 30th

As soon as I had breakfast and swept the school house I went back to the Culvert beyond Fred Miesner's and found Tom Stone already at work. We worked at it all day and raised the tile at each end as they were much lower than the ones in the center which couldn't take as much water as they should. I called Murston up and he told me to do any thing that I thought needed doing, and to put the new tile in this culvert that were there but we didn't think there were enough of them. Ina told me this morning that she wouldn't be able to stay on after Easter. Cold raw east wind. Cloudy
