

and rained & very dark so they said we would stay all night so we did rather than let B. J. come home with us for we knew he would if we attempted to come. So he went home after a while.

When never playing I & A and B. J. asked Jennie the question "What was she going to do after she got married" & she said "Put my children to bed" & right after it she said "Counting chickens before they are hatched" & we all had such a wonderful laugh & shame as never was.
After he had gone we got ready for bed took all our boots off & tholew them all in the very middle of the floor & they were there all night. When we got our night dresses on we had a promce around the rooms from one to the bedroom at last I got in with Edith in the back bed room & I in the front one. E & I talked a long time before going to sleep. I told her
