Suggestions in Surgical Diseases of the Kidney—No. 2.

If the patient is instructed to pass the urine in two glasses, and the first glass is cloudy and the second clear, then the anterior urethra is involved.

If both glasses are cloudy then the condition may involve both the anterior and posterior urethra, or the bladder.

If a catheterized specimen drawn from the bladder contains pus, then the bladder or the upper urinary tract or both are involved. If this be the case, only the cystoscope with the ureteral catheter will clear up the diagnosis.—Bremerman; Int. Journ. of Surg.
