

Lewis has continued to plough in the ten-acre field as usual. I went down to Jarvis this forenoon to settle up some accounts &c. Called at John Belbeck's on the way and paid a note given last year for sawing. Have been picking over apples in the wood-house this afternoon.

Received a card from my old college chum W. St. Rowson saying that he was in town and would like me to come and see him before Thursday next.

The weather continues fine.

My man has continued to plough in the ten-acre field to day. How thankful to say that he has finished this field.

Have been being myself as usual at sundry jobs. This afternoon however I went to the mill at Port Down with a quart of chop.

Had to come home without it though.

While in the village I took tea with my old college friend and room-mate W. St. Rowson of Burlington Out.

He looks very much changed; but talks quite natural.
