or at any of the periods typified by Shakespeare's "seven ages," tonic medication may be indicated.

Pepto-Mangan ("Gude")

may be safely and profitably given to the babe in arms, the pallid, anemic school girl, the adolescent youth, the overworked housewife, the neurasthenic business man, the tired school teacher, the society worn matron, or the feeble octogenarian. Patients of all ages take and tolerate it readily, because of its palatability, lack of harshness, and prompt absorbability. It tones, restores and reconstructs surely, promptly and pleasantly, in all conditions of systemic devitalization. To insure results to both patient and physician, specify "original bottle."

In 11 oz. bottles only.                      Never sold in bulk.

Samples and literature upon application.
