

reek."

Bolinda.

Thank you very much, Bolinda, for the contest, which appears below.

(These proverbs are all familiar ones, and the main thought of each is translated into different words.)

1. Never subject a presented equine to denticular inspection.

2. You garner the centimes, and the monetary units will have a care for their own welfare.

3. A vessel under optical supervision never reaches a temperature of 212 degrees Fahrenheit.

4. Plumaged bipeds of the same species congregate in common.

5. An asinine party and his collateral are oft soon estranged.

6. Place a hobo a l'equestrien, and he will journey to hades.

7. Who hooks my mesh-bag becomes a stealer of nothing.

8. A canine who gives vent to his sentiments by a series of vocal efforts rarely finds use for his bicuspids.

9. If it can be done in 24 hours never do it in 48.

10. The humidity is not comparative, but is absolute.

11. A polished steel instrument used at the psychological moment will be tantamount to the saving of three times three.

12. Accidents often occur between the drinking vessel and the facial aperture.

13. Sartorial compliment is prone to demonstrate the character of the wearer.

14. Accelerated exertion produces faulty results.

15. One feathered biped imprisoned digitately is equal to twice that many at large.
