

Nov 23rd Saturday left before breakfast. Ther a m.
9:00. 75°. not raining
now. but a real Scotch mist. some places for miles they have sand bags along the highway. each side to keep the road from washing. Wonder where they get all the bags.

Held up at a R.R. crossing by an old Wood burner engine hauling logs. also took a snap of an old wood burner log loader.
Stopped at Brunswick Georgia for breakfast. drive about 45 miles to there.
Breakfast 90° nobody hungry I guess Films 60° Took a walk down to the water saw a couple of boats. took a snap of one loading resin. also a snap of the main street and one of the State Building very cold here & cloudy night on the Atlantic coast. still swamp after leaving here Saw a big Gasoline Refining plant just outside of Brunswick. took a picture of an old wood burner engine at Kingsland about noon getting out of the swamp. more like dry land now. pine trees & palmetto under them

Crossed into Florida about 12:15 P.M. madge says it doesn't look or feel any different. as it is still cold & cloudy
