we spilt it in the berth. we crossed the Continental Divide at Creston <sup>elevation 7102</sup> early in the morning. Wild + barren looking here. the Rivers start here for the West and the East. at Rawlins at Breakfast time. some cattle and sheep raising here.
at Laramie at 11 o'clock elevation 7300 feet and the population about 10000. some big oil
fields near here
Hermosa next place
only 150 population

still climbing elevation 7899 feet. after leaving Hermosa we go through a long tunnel 1800
feet long. at Sherman about noon. the highest point on the road here elevation 8073 feet. lots of cattle and sheep grazing
along here. weather
cool. nearly to cold
to sit on the observation
car. with your overcoat buttoned up. will soon be home to the cold country again
but guess it is colder
here than at home
