

soaked it for an hour or more. The original spot seems to be healing nicely but the numerous breakings out around it are getting very sore. Dad. and Frank dug potatoes all morning and I went out for about an hour before noon to help them. Two of Ham Thompson's kids were down this morning to say that Ham was going to fill his silo this morning after noon so Frank and I went up after dinner. We were up there till after dark and then had tea up there but didn't finish the job as the corn was so wet it kept slugging up the blowers so that they had to take the curved pipes and the distributors off. I worked in the field for an hour or so loading stuff but my arm got so sore I had to come up and trade jobs with Gige M^r. Bude who was tromping in the silo. Eld Mr. Milly was in there too. I didn't mind that job at all. On our way home Frank & I stopped in at the mill and got a bag of crate fattening mix for another bunch of chickens which I shut up last night but Tom had been here and said he couldn't get me any further milk. Dad. and I went out to night and caught all the pullets we could find as Chris told Dad. to-day that he would be over Monday to take all that were any good for Jack and that he would give me 25[¢] per lb. for them.

Sunday November 4th

All the household but me went to church this morning and as I had to soak my arm again I didn't get down till half past eleven and then went down to the doctor's. He dressed it again and gave me a hyperdermic for some reason or other and told me the new breakings out were infections from the original sore. It was very painful this afternoon but principally around the spot where he inserted the needle. I went down to Auntie's for dinner and stayed there all day and all night. I went up to see Mary this afternoon but she was up at the Bayley's as old Mrs. Hall just died and they wanted her to be at the door. Mary was home after tea so I spent the evening with her. A goodly portion of the Rawlby family came down to Auntie's this afternoon for an hour or so. Auntie Alice was over here to dinner and Ench came down town with her this afternoon and took the five o'clock car for Simcoe to sing with a few others in the Dover Choir at Trinity Church where the Bishop of Kootenay was preaching. There was no service in our church to night on account of his being in Simcoe and Auntie, Auntie Alice and Winnie went up on the seven o'clock train
