96 TO COME

The Venous Hum.

The bruit-de-diable, Nun's murmur, or venous hum, is a functional (hemic) murmur noted occasionally in the veins of the neck, and accompanies conditions of anemia or chlorosis. The patient may be aware of its presence, and the piping, constant musical hum is best heard on auscultation over the right pulmonary area. [This is always an indication for Pepto-Mangan (Gude).]

Weather

Temp.

Quite a frost
last night. Handled & stayed with Adna Post
all night last night & came home with Grace & Melba. Grace &
Melba went to the fair
I went to Emilie's & she & I went for nuts. Mr Youngo helped John cut
cot. corn before dinner
then went to the fair
