June 6, 1907.

Dr. Nicolas G. de Rosas, Havana, Cuba, says:

"I have had the opportunity of using your preparation, known as Pepto-Mangan (Gude), in the treatment of anemias of different forms and origin; in chlorosis, especially in young adolescents; also in cephalalgias of pale persons, and generally in those affections caused by blood poverty through diminution in the quantity of hemoglobin, always with

A fine day but quite a breeze
& to night a strong east wind blowing. Eugene & Mr Beth was to Apline, & came here for dinner on their way home. John has been splitting wood. Girls drove to school they have spams all this week.
