

May 14th 1893.

Sun. 14. A light misty rain this morning but clearing off and becoming very fine, until evening, then it began raining, but not very much.

Mon. 15. Very fine day, cool and pleasant but clouding over at night and commenced raining and continued all night, but apparently very little rain fell. Had help at Mr. John Hardings and of the wood helped the women to make flour powder.

Tue. 16. Raining this morning and continuing all day from the N. East without ceasing the amount of rain that fell is almost beyond estimate, the wind blowing very hard to night, and has done so most of the day.

May 17th 1893.

Wed. 17. Raining this morning and has done so all the night previous, partly clearing at noon but commenced again and continued until late in the night with good prospects of continuing all night. Farmers are almost discouraged, many of them have not sowed any grain as yet, and few have.

Thurs. 18. Raining still, having rained all night, and raining all day today. Turning cold this evening and clearing off sun going down clear.

Fri 19. Cool and partly cloudy, windy, drying the fields very fast.

Sat 20. Fine and warm all day, a light thunder shower came up tonight very fine and pleasant evening. Choir organized to night.
