

Saturday February 6th

It rained all forenoon and turned later to snow it has been cold and raw all day. After chores I spent most of the day fixing around the Chicken house and made a door for the opening at the east end of the shed. Dad and Frank sawed wood all morning and right after dinner hooked up and went down after a load of shingles and pickets to make a sheep rack. Kirby had them in the wood shed down home. Win came back with them and stayed to tea. After they got home we separated the calves from the sheep and put the former over in the barn near Oread's stall. After tea Win, Frank and I went down to the Moving Picture show. Win & I got in at the first show but Frank and Lila who were a little later couldn't get in on account of the crowd but they got in at the second show and saw the "Million Dollar Mystery" which was the principal thing we went to see. The films didn't come till the late train so Win & I missed it. One of the ewes the old fat one looks very sick to-night. Her legs seem stiff and she is panting very hard and not eating, we don't know what ails her but she looks to be pretty sick. I have got up fairly early in the morning to write this and although I have the fire lit. It is still so cold in here that I have put on my gloves and cap and pulled down the ear tabs in the hope of feeling comfortable.

Sunday February 7th

Frank went down to church and Sunday school this morning and Dad & I did up the chores. Dick got up in time for dinner. We all got ready to drive down to see the wreck of the snowplow after dinner in the hob sleighs but just as we got ready a terrific snow storm came up and in the midst of it. Elva, Saida, Davis & May Perry came over and were here all the after noon and evening. Then we hooked up to the hob sleigh & Dick, Frank and I drove them down home. We had a mighty pleasant time but poor Dick didn't get down at all to see Doss and he was terribly afraid she would be made. It has been a lovely day most of the time but for a snow storm now and then. The sick ewe was a lot better to-day but some thing is wrong with her.

Monday February 8th

I got up fairly early this morning and got most of my chores done before breakfast. I didn't do much during the morning but make some buttons to hold the frames in the Chicken house. We had dinner early and hooked up to the hob sleighs and all drove down to meet the one o'clock train as County & County Alice came in on it from Bradford as they had gone over there from Toronto & see Miss Batterly.
