

make much head way as it hurt my sprained wrist and I had to do it with one hand. I found a great many little maple seedlings just started down through there so I dug up a couple of dozen and set them out in a row by the currant bushes. Charlie's hand was down for quite awhile this morning and got some setting lenses. Mary drove down town about five o'clock and got the car washed. Dad & Louise came out for a few minutes after she left and after they left. Mabel and her father drove in with some beehives and equipment.

Sunday May 15th

It was a dull cold and wet morning so as we couldn't go to the beach. Mary drove me down to church and she came back home. After church I went down to Dr. Cook and he bandaged up my wrist. I started to walk home as it was raining a little and I didn't think Mary would drive in for me. I got a ride however all the way home with Bob. Smith.

Sunday June 5th

I was forced to leave off diary writing this week ago as my wrist is sore and have had a very easy time of it since, as I could do nothing with my right hand, although it didn't pain in the least when I kept it quiet. It was in a great many ways a very pleasant experience for one as naturally inclined to laziness with so little time to indulge the inclination as I have always been. At any other time it would have been a dashed inconvenient fiasco to be in but it was just another case of the wind being tempered to the shorn lamb. so in the first place it was too wet to do any thing but chase and odd jobs and in the next place old Tom was always on hand not only ready and anxious to do what had to be done but always on the look out for jobs that ought to be done. I had my wrist bandaged with plaster for awhile and then I took the bandage off and painted it with iodine and finally I left off all treatment and it has got all right of its own accord. We haven't got much done but several jobs started including some fixing in the land and painting the house. We also got some telephone poles from Pete Kelly and put them in and both Tom & I have the telephone installed. and last but not least Dad & Louise & Louise's
