Tuesday September 26th Got up good and early this morning and after doing most of the chores drove down with Daddy for him to catch the train. I looked all over town for Bill to come out and run the long furrows in the wheat field but could not find him. He was at the Dominion Hotel but his name was not on the register, so the English man thought he was not there. I saw most of the day. Dick got a basket full of hickory nuts and said there were twice as many more. I came up about half past four and did chores. Dick and Dad drove down about seven to meet Daddy and Frank. Lila was all ready to go with us. Bill was at Frank's and said he was coming over to morrow. He had toothache to day and was going up to have a tooth pulled. The train did not get in till nearly nine. We got home about ~~seven~~ with Dad was dead this morning. The poor little thing was separated to death. The old brother or mother did not look after the at all. Daddy got out left the gate open into the wheat field and up by themselves for about a month. It was a big "I'm named" sign on the back of the automobile.

Wednesday September 27th It began to rain soon after we got up and there was a terrific gale. Dad went out to plough some of the furrows in the wheat field but only got six done. When it got too wet. It rained most of the morning.
 Dick had to walk to school and took his dinner. I fooled around with Frank and Dad made a scraper for the stable.
 This afternoon it dried out a little and Frank and I picked hickory nuts. We got about a quarter of bushel. Alan and Miss Brent came over for a while with a bunch of kids. Quint came over after school with Dick and they went back shooting with Frank who has a 22 rifle.
 Quint stayed to tea. Bill came over after tea and got hooked for a job cutting corn.
 Quint went home with Bill. We played cards and Governor's game with marbles to the two remaining pitters of the old white
