Suggestions About Eye Injuries.

Ordinary surgical principles apply here as elsewhere, the basis being thorough cleanliness. The cap and gown and other frills of the operating-room may be dispensed with, but clean hands, sterilized instruments, irrigation of the conjunctival sac with normal salt or boracic acid solution, are essential in all forms of eye injuries, from the slightest to the most dangerous.—J. A. White; Int. Journ. of Surg.

Weather Rained all day Temp.

a very disagreeable time, Maud & Stella drove to school, Carl came & Eugene went down to Mr. Sheppards sale with time, Carl bought a cow, Eugene has gone over to night to Mr. Parkes's to a party. Maud was invited but decided not to go on account of the bad weather. I have been piecing cushion tops out of lace scraps & made Maud a under waist, besides my work, got a letter from Curly. People say and that she was up a much letter.
