

Tuesday, May 2

123 DAYS PAST

THURSDAY

243 TO COME

Of Distinct Auxiliary Value.

An important factor in the successful treatment of the marasmic infant is nutritive and blood-glandular reinforcement. While Pepto-Mangan (Gude) is not directly nutritive, it is of distinct auxiliary value, as it so improves the quantity and quality of the blood as to influence for the better, the absorption and assimilation of the child's food.

Weather warmer with a high Temp.

I washed John helped me to rinse
the clothes. Girls went to school John has been working at his fence by the road.
Girls went to school. Stars Mathews came home to see her father this afternoon
Mr J le Dance came home from the North West last night. Creque went to meet him. Aleta thinks that baby is some better tonight Ed Thompson got a load of hay today. Turned Sarah Sarah 5