

January Monday 10 1927

A nice bright day for me to start back on the milk after not having peddled for six days. Got along pretty good even if Charlie Ruby who was supposed to help me didn't show up till I was nearly through. Finished up at 12.15. My feet were pretty tired at night after being on them all day so retired a few minutes after 8.

Tuesday 11

Charlie helped me peddle the milk and we had a great time and were home by 12.20. He washed the bottles in the afternoon and I went to town then went to Bradford with Dad where did some business then went to a sale just outside the city. I went after a horse but didn't buy any as they didn't fill the bill. Paris defeated Hamilton 4-3 in an O.A. hockey game.

Wednesday 12

Another dandy day and a little milder. Made good time all by myself and was home from town at 12.30 or so. Had a shave and called Jean up at noon. Charlie and Cross went up to see Dan in the home at night. Had a nice time with Jean when we looked at some letters of hers before she burnt them and she had the date book to our school. She showed me part of her trousers and how nice they were.

January Thursday 13 1927

The number thirteen is said to be an unlucky number but the 13th of January 1927 proved to be a lucky day for me when I had a "near to be forgotten" drive with Jean in the cutter behind Dolly on a mild night to a 47.910 directors meeting at Leo Kellys and home again. The only unlucky part was that I had a chilly drive home all alone but the 3rd of March will soon be here and then Oh Boy! I'll be home before there is the snow.

Friday 14

I'll bet there were two "somebodies" who were lonely after their drive early in the morning. Won't we be glad when there are no sad parts and we will be together always. Retired at 8.15 at night as I got my feet feet and my legs were tired out from wading through the heavy snowfall during the night.

Saturday 15

A very frosty but bright day and I almost froze on the milk route. Charlie and Rose went skating at night but I wrote a letter to Harry instead and went to dream land in good time. Wiped the dishes after supper for Grace as I wouldn't get a bit of practice.
