 a purse of fifty Dollars Mr Stetwell was Mr Orbit's Judge & I was Mr Morton's Mr Willson of Brockville recommended Mr Hough as the third man the decision was that the British plowman did the best work as to whole & was entitlled to the purse the American plowman in commencing his ridge laid the tow first furs about four inches deep & eleven wide & from one to tow inches apart & very uneven the next tow furs was laid up well about six inches deep which left a very unevenly sent or crown the rest of the ridge was laid rather flat the finishing fur was entirely to deep it looked like a ditch Paterson's ridges looked well but when you come to examining them the fur was laid so lose that you might run your hand along between the furrows his furrow was cut between five & six inches deep & eight broad we considered Paterson the Best as to whole & as to make to Paterson both better
