

party Essie was having for all her friends with babies. They left Harry B. Gay at Mrs. Loupkins. Mr. Bagley brought them home about dark. Fair and very cool all day.

Saturday September 26th

We thought that they would not allow us to haul corn to the factory to-day, so Frank worked up his pea stubble and sowed it and I did over my little summer fallow and the garden south of the house and also cut the lawn. About five o'clock we all drove down town and Mary took Harry B. to the doctor. He said he had tonsillitis and that we must be very careful of him. I noticed a few teams putting corn up at the factory when we went by there after noon but Frank was anxious to get his wheat in any way. Mabel had school to-day on account of not having it on Monday and then after noon Mrs. Walker brought some more balloons over for me to paint as Mabel has a chance to try for the phone graph which is first prize at the Dinwiddie Fair on Tuesday. Fine and warmer.

Sunday September 27th

It rained a little this fore noon and we didn't get up early nor hurry much when we did get up so that it was about ten o'clock when we finished breakfast. I was sitting around reading and playing with the kid and Mary doing odd jobs around the house when Cary Butler appeared to spend the day. Charlie was out in the buggy but had been over to Mel's to buy little pigs and as he was in his old clothes had to go home to change. I drove over with him and viewed his recent achievements in cabinet making. Mary managed to scall up a very respectable dinner and we had an enjoyable afternoon during which I painted 12 more balloons for Mabel. They left about five and I helped Doc Loupkins chase two of his cows out of my corn as it had rained we got pretty wet during it.

Monday September 28th

I didn't go over home to pull corn to-day as I thought that the very heavy rain we had during the night make the field too soft. Dad & Frank did pull some though but didn't take the wagon out. I picked apples this morning. We have three or four trees with bean big second apples and they are dropping. I don't know what to do with them but I hate to see them
