

me Charlie Jove's side of the street of Clarence Ferris getting fired down at the mill. Charlie bought the lot across from his house on purpose to preserve the big spruce trees along the road on the lot. After he bought it Clarence wanted to buy it from him and Charlie sold it to him on condition he would leave the trees but it was only a verbal agreement. Joe Long wanted the trees so Clarence let him cut them down although Charlie offered to buy them on the lot or another lot down town in order to keep them.
 If that is the case Clarence certainly deserved all he got because Charlie has treated him well. Karl Coleman was over this morning to look at the steers and told Dad he would give him 12 cts for him when he was ready in two or three weeks. Dad took Daisy May down on Saturday to ship but Niel wasn't there and had left word at Henderson's that he didn't want her that they but Dad had never got the word so was very puffed when he had to bring her home again. Karl told him he would make Niel buy her over again and if he didn't make a suitable offer that he himself would take her. This afternoon Frank and I sheared one of the rams I did the shearing and made a pretty money making job.

as I have forgotten how to hold them. We only did this as Frank had to get to the mill after the chop. Dad came over with a letter from Dick. He enclosed a program of a concert he had been at put on by Austrian-Hungarian prisoners of war which were under Japanese control. I went back to Supper's about five o'clock and got home about dark. I made arrangements with old Evans to do the chores in the morning. Frank went down to the Masson dance to night. Sunny and mild all day. Cool breeze.
 We lost a fine big lamb to day. Dad opened him and found a big wool ball in his stomach. That is the second lamb that has died. one of Split ear's died Saturday. but it was never right.

Tuesday April 22nd

Frank and I got three rams sheared this morning After dinner Dad sheared one and then I sheared the other two. We didn't have time to do any more as I went over to Supper's about half past four. I rode Joe over and when I got there the cows and calves were all loose in the stable and so I didn't have to bring the cows in nor milk one of them and got home quite early. Dad went back with the harrows this morning and went over the
