

Cleaned out the hulk's pen. Dad felt pretty miserable all morning but still worked around he & Frank went out to look at the field to see if it was dry and they thought it would do to go on after dinner. So Frank got out early and got a good <sup>hot</sup> day in at it while Dad sheared old Grey nose. I helped him hold her and according to my nature when I am not in action, went fast asleep. I also went over to Jack Martin's to see what I could get fifty eggs for to set under the hens I got from Lipper and I was a greatly surprised when he told me he would trade evenly with me and that I could get them Monday. I thought it was pretty decent of him as he said they would be better eggs than mine and I could use punch the chicks for cockles. Dad went out about five to relieve Frank who came in and went down to Hubby's to tea as this was Winnie's birthday. I went down after tea as Hubby was over to dinner and said we would have a game of poker but there were two or three girls there who didn't care to play poker so we played catechism instead. We got home early. It has been hot all day and is very hot to night feels very much like rain.

Sunday April 25th

I got up at five o'clock this morning so managed to get to Sunday school and church with Frank. As Topsy has resigned Enah had to go down and play the organ. Dad drove her down and came back after her leaving Liddens in Dick's charge. This afternoon Charlie Dunkin & Frank Bond drove in and Dunkin brought us the registration papers for the ewes, at last we thought we were never going to get them, they were here most of the afternoon but Dad & I went back over the wheat to the gully and Liddens followed us. The wheat is pretty fair only spots which don't look very well. I drove Enah down to church again to night but came back home. Frank has been down all the afternoon so he will be at church. Colia Rye's rode in after dinner but we thought it was too hot to go for a ride so he went down the lake shore alone to get Coby. It has been very hot all day but a little cooler to night. Looks rainy
