

streaks running up towards my elbow. He told me to go home and soak it for an hour in hot water and then put some lard on it which he gave me. so I started for home but met Dad, Enah & the baby driving to church and Dad. told me to go to Auntie's and he came right down after leaving Enah at church and he got the water hot there in the gas much quicker than we could have at home. I soaked it for a good hour and it took the pain out a bit. I stayed there to dinner and tea. This afternoon I went up to see Mary, but she had gone up to the Davises for dinner so I missed her. I knocked around with Charlie Quamby all the after noon and to night went to church with Auntie and then over with Mary. It was nearly twelve when I got home but I had to light a fire and soak my arm again in the Dr. W. County after church that I had better if the red streaks were still up the arm. Dad & Enah both came out in their night apparel & hung around till I got through. Friday but saw.

Monday October 22nd

I haven't done any thing in the way of work all day. I soaked my arm for an hour or more this morning and for a little while this after noon. This afternoon

I went down town and sent in my claim for exemption and then went down to show my arm to Dr. Cook. He said it was coming all right and opened it up more putting his probe down to the bone. I then went up and had my hair cut. Dad. plowed all day and Frank did chores. Enah went down to Auntie's to tea and went up to Sun with the flabbies to sing with the massed choir of the deanery at the Deavery meeting. Jack Martin brought her home.

Tuesday October 23rd

I haven't done much again today. I soaked my arm again this morning and this after noon drove down town to get some coal oil and came around by the mill and got a bag of bran. It rained all day so Dad. and Frank couldn't do much out side but Frank fixed the new trough in the pigpen and arranged the swinging door over it so that it would work easily and save him climbing over it every time he feeds the pigs. I stopped in at Auntie Alice's on my way down and she had just had a back tooth out. Dad. spent most of the day doing chores and detaching and this after noon he went over with one and took Jim Rose's chickens over to Jack Martin's and he shipped them for us.
