I drove her home after tea and took Bill of my cockles which he spoke for to mate hers. We weighed the two of them in a bag & held 14 lbs. I had told him he could have the market price, but I hadn't figured on it being as low as which he said was all they could get alive so I said that would be the price but I was 18 so I got 12.5 apiece for them. The Sunday October November 1st

This has been a beautiful genuine Indian Summer day. It froze quite hard last night but has been mild and sunny to day, with a hazy smoky air.
We all went for a walk in the gully this morn and Harry B & Gay had a fine time throwing in the water although Mary nearly fainted every time went close enough to the creek to do so. This after we all drove down around by Marlburg to Paul & Frank's about going to Mr. Bagley's to-morrow night. It was dark & quite chilly, wi

Monday November 2nd

I went over home this morning and Frank & I freed old Charlie to the wagon and went do we took a grid to the mill first and then went down the station and got the baskets Dorrie sent for her apple and I got the storm windows that were at Aunt's house doing other errands up town. It was after one o'clock when we got back to the farm for dinner and I went home right after with the wagon and then went back to the farm around by the mill and got Dad's chops I then drove back here in the buggy. I did my chores as fast as
