Liability of Husband for Unrequested Operation on Wife.

It is held that a husband is not liable to a surgeon who operated upon his wife during the husband's temporary absence from the city, where the wife did not request the operation, but merely passively acquiesced in it, and no person having any power of agency for the husband requested or authorized it.—Kennedy vs. Benson, New York Appellate Division, 144 N. Y. Supp., 787.
