

I started from James Holcomb's this morning at about eight o'clock. To deliver Notices. Got James to go Eastward while I went West. Finished delivering my share of the Notices about sun-dawn. Found that the trees had not been taken from the car and did what I could to have them taken over early in the morning. Had dinner with Mrs. Daniel Wooley. Got home about ten, and found every thing all right so far as I could see.

The weather continues warm and showery.

Have been engaged at helping J. H. Seaman deliver fruit trees in Port Dover to day. Left home at about four o'clock this morning. Did not get through with our day's work until after nine o'clock this evening. Walked home ashen done. Had a few orders on hand but only three or four. Felt very tired after the job was over. The anxiety and care are considerable in connection with the matter. Enjoyed visiting with my old friends and acquaintances very much.
